Board Of Trade Party Inspects Works Which Mean So Much To District

Fifty Merchants And Farmers Are Shown Over Big Project By Courtesy Of Col. Davies

An invitation of Col. Davies extended of the Abbotsford Board of Trade members to visit the Sumas dyking works was accepted on Thursday, when a party of about 45 farmers and merchants boarded a speeder with two trailers, just after noon and made the visit under the courteous guidance of Engineer Sinclair.

The trip was quickly made except that one trailer had to be left on a sharp grade near the dam, and towed in separately after the other trailer reached the destination.

Starting out with the expectation that all the work in connection with the reclamation project was practically complete the party, on arrival, found appearances anything but indicative of a finished job. A big scoop dredge was busily at work, concrete mixers rattling away and workmen actively engaged all over the main dam site.

The party first visited the pump house, which is not yet completed. There, under supervision, of a capable Westinghouse Engineer electricians were installing a large 1,250 h.p. electrically-driven 54 inch spiral centrifugal pump. The installation work on this unit was practically complete, the engineer being confident the pump would be in operation early next week.

Concrete sleeves for three other pumps of the same size were cast into the pump house bottom ready to receive the motor units as quickly as the first pump is completely installed.

The pump house is situated in the dam which is of reinforced concrete and 400 ft. wide, and the pumps to be contained in it at flood times, when the flood gates are closed, will pump the water in the western area through the dam. The pumping installation will comprise the following power units:

Two motors, each having 485 h.p. at the highest speed and 850 h.p. at lowest speed.

Two motors, each having 485 h.p. at the highest speed, 320 h.p. at medium speed, and 240 h.p. at the lowest speed.

Three 10 h.p., six 7 1/2 h.p. and two 2 h.p. motors.

A liberal allowance has been made for the pumping requirements and this maximum amount of power would be used perhaps only once in twenty years. It is anticipated that the maximum demand in winter will not exceed 2,800 h.p., and this once in two or three years and the average maximum both summer and winter in an average year will be approximately 2,500 h.p.

In connection with a scheme of this description, data has been completed showing the precipitation of rain in inches over a cycle of years, and in this instance, data for twenty-three years were secured. From the information gathered it has been possible to estimate the run-off in inches per month and per day, also the cubic-foot-seconds per square mile, from which, given the static head, it is possible to approximately compute the power required during the respective months of the year.

The party were then shown the dam intake and outlet where workmen were performing final work in the sluices and escorted by Engineer Sinclair over the entire site. Most of the foundation material for the dam, he explained, was pumped to the site by the big 20 inch suction dredge "General Tobin" as soon as the lake is dry the dam will be completed, the delay of this work being partly to enable removal of the dredge, which, to give an idea of its capacity and size, it may be stated used 1,250 h.p. for its pumps, having a maximum capacity of 1,200 cubic yards per hour.

Electrical power has played an important part in the carrying out of this work. Electrically driven suction dredges and drag lines have been supplied with the vital "fluid" from the B. C. E. R. power stations, the camps and the continuous night and day opera have been lighted from the same source. The big works was only made possible by the abundant supply of light and power from the B. C. E. R.

The power was supplied through the medium of 4 1/2 miles of 34,000-volt high tension three-phase transmission line, which was constructed on the eastern side of the Vedder canal.

The electrically operated drag lines had a capacity output of 75 to 150 cubic yards per hour. They are equipped with 150 h.p. of connected motor load.

The consumption of electrical energy between March 21, 1921, when the preliminary work was started, and February 1, 1923, has been as follows:

Suction dredge	6,134,200 k.w.h.
Quarry	278,500 "
Drag lines	95,440 "
Preliminary work	46,100 "
Grand total	6,554,240 k.w.h.

at a cost of $55,209.84, or an average price of 0.842 cent net per k. w. h.

After a most interesting and instructive inspection the party returned to the G. N. tracks, where Mr. F. J. R. Whitehead on behalf of the Board of Trade, thanked Mr. F. N. Sinclair for the tour.

Two speeders were used on the return trip, the party arriving back at Abbotsford at 5 o'clock confident that the engineers in charge at the Sumas works had made an efficient job of the project and that the scheme was successful. That the confidence was shared by farmers in affected areas was most noticeable by passing observation a greatly increased acreage being under cultivation this year as well as buildings having been erected and other improvements made.

The party included Messrs. F. S. Thorn, F. J. R. Whitehead, Rev. A. H. Priest, J. Van Mallesen, J. Frith, F. W. Rudge, Roy Serl, A. Campbell, J. W. Winslow, W. W. Johnston, J. H. Burton, Wm Owens, W. Bains, J. Dawson, B. Bolster, C. A. Lamson, O. Blatchford, Wm. Fadden, M. M. Bowman, W. Whiteman, A. Boley, E. Boley, C. Everett, J. W. Watson, Jay Starr, Perry Starr, J. Johnson, F. A. Marshall, D. McZenzie, R. McCrimmon, E. T. Weir, R. H. Eby, E. A. Barrett, G. H. Heller, P. Carscadden, C. A. Haddrell, W. S. Hill-Tout, O. W. Benedict, G. F. Pratt, of Abbotsford; Roy Serl, Huntingdon; T. Straiton, Kilgord; M. Melander, Peardonville; E. C. Murray, Vancouver.

Hospital Donation List

The following donations have been received during the month of May and are herein gratefully acknowledged.

Mrs. Thornthwaite, eggs and rhubarb; Mrs. Luyder, flowers; C. G. I. T., flowers; Mr. James Trusler, vegetables; Mr. Allardyce, magazines and woolen scarf; Mrs. Coutts, flowers; Mrs. Wallace, flowers; Mrs. F. Evans, Peardonville, cream and eggs; Mrs. Sparrow, jelly; Miss C. Tretheway, flowers; Mrs. Zeigler, dahlia bulbs and four gramophone records; Mrs. Swift, rhubarb; Mrs. McMenemy, milk; Mrs. Tebbutt, rhubarb; Mr. Coutts, fish; Mrs. Horn, lettuce; Mrs. Marot, cream; Mr. McCallum, preserved fruit and jelly; Mrs. H. Fraser, magazines; Mrs. Shortreed, flowers; Mr. Cottrill, earth for flower boxes.

A jolly party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Toller on Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. Toller's birthday anniversary. Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Beresford, Mrs. and Miss Moret and others. Whist and other games whiled away a pleasant evening.

Trail Rangers Activities

Following a winter's course of "Yarns on African Pioneers" four boys of the Beaver camp passed their test for the Mission Hero's Badge recently. Sidney Swift took the highest standing.

The boys of both camps have been taking part in the National Athletic contest which is held from coast to coast every spring. The Bull Dog camp have completed their trials and made a good showing. Lloyd Vanetta won first place, closely followed by Harry Taylor and Harry MacKinnon.

Aldergrove Man Kills Chinaman

Early Wednesday morning Mr. Anthony Rerrie mill manager of Aldergrove was awakened by hearing someone prowling around his house, knocking at the doors, and windows. Going out the back door of the house to investigate Mr. Rerrie heard his wife screaming, and rushing back to the bedroom found a Chinaman attacking his wife, having torn part of the covers from the bed.

Mr. Rerrie immediately grappled with the Oriental and a fierce struggle ensued. It was surmised later that the Chinaman had been driven insane by the thunderstorm of the previous evening, and he fought with the terrific strength of a maniac. Mrs. Rerrie was just convalescing from an operation, but their young daughter only nine years old, tried to help her father by pounding the Chinaman on the back.

Remembering his revolver in the bureau, Mr. Rerrie was able to loosen the Oriental's hold, who immediately turned to attack Mrs. Rerrie again.

After a desperate struggle the husband was able to force the Chinaman out of the house, who turned and ran, Mr. Rerrie firing two shots into the ground to awaken his employees.

The Oriental ran only a short distance, when, turning back, he picked up a piece of lumber and rushed to again attack Mr. Rerrie. The mill manager then shot the intruder through the abdomen, severing an artery.

At the inquest held the same day the coroner's jury found that Mr. Rerrie fired in self defence. The Chinaman's name was Yong Sing.

Chief Macklin of the Provincial Police however, took Mr. Rerrie to New Westminster where he will be tried probably next Tuesday. No bail was offered.

Annual Picnic At Atkinson's Ridge Enjoyed

Despite the efforts of Plubius to dampen the enthusiasm of the Community, a large crowd gathered at Atkinson's Ridge on Saturday for the annual picnic.

A fine program of sports was gone through, to the satisfaction of prize winners and the gratification of the on lookers.

With an abundance of ice cream children and adults experienced that feeling of comfortable sufficiency.

The new bran proved an important feature of the picnic. Dull weather was no detriment to the consumption of eatables at the tables set up on the ground floor of the building.

By the kindness of the building contractor Mr. Orr of Chilliwack, swings had been erected on the top floor to the immense satisfaction of juniors and seniors.

At evening Mr. Orr was host to the community with a fine dance program.

The top floor of the barn provided ample room for the dancers. Excellent music was provided by Mrs. Manuel, piano, Mrs. T. Walters, violin and Mr. W. Orr, saxophone. Upward of 200 people were present and accommodated with ease in the extensive building.

The revels continued until midnight, and the day closed with those expressions of appreciation which marks the event as a success.

Without mentioning names specifically, the various committees receive the thanks of the community for the performance of arduous duties connected with preparation and conduct of the annual field day.

Mr. J. Trotter of Chilliwack was the soloist at the Community service on Sunday last. Next Sunday, the ambitious singers of the church intend to render an anthem.

Difficulties of transportation result in the purchase of a Chev. by Mr. Ward and an Elizabeth by Mr. Good.

The bet is on A. C. W. as a better driver.

Messrs. C. Ball and J. Fisholek have returned to Kilgord and soon we hope to hear the orchestra practice.

Mrs. T. Lehman Dies

The death occurred suddenly on Wednesday evening last, of Mrs. Thomas Lehman at the age of 62 years.

Interment will be made at Mt. Lehman on Sunday next, services to be conducted at the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Tapp and daughter Gwendolin of Huntingdon attended the wedding of Miss Skinner in Westminster Thursday.

Drillers at the oil well are still impatiently awaiting arrival of casing which is expected any day. It is en route from Calgary.

Bank Of Montreal Makes Appointments

Some important appointments in the service of the Bank of Montreal are just announced including the following:

Mr. C. W. Chesterton, District Superintendent for Saskatchewan at Regina, to be District Superintendent for Alberta, with headquarters at Calgary.

Mr. J. W. Spears, superintendent of Montreal Subsidiary Branches at Montreal, to be District Superintendent for Saskatchewan, with headquarters at Regina.

Mr. A. M. Peters, Acting District Superintendent for Alberta, to be Manager of the Branch at St. John, N. B.

Mr. H. F. Skey, Manager of the Branch at London, Ontario, to be Associate Manager at Winnipeg.

Berry Men Distribute Three Cars Crates

Secretary Pratt reports considerable activity among members of the local berry men's association. A splendid crop is expected this year, although the prices are not expected to be very high. The local has just distributed its third car of raspberry, strawberry, cherry and tomato crates, in addition to shipping 1000 for the convenience of Claybur growers.

Four new members were enrolled this week, the local now having over 50 active shippers.

Arrangements have been made to hold a strawberry packing demonstration at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of June 12th at E. Haragu's place near the Sprigg farm on R. R. 1. In the afternoon at 2.30 another demonstration will be given at the farm of G. A. House on the Yale road east of Abbotsford. Prof. Buck, Associate Professor of Horticulture of the U. of C. will supervise.

Rare Atmosphere In Picture Billed For Saturday

A most unusual picture "Morals" featuring May McAvoy comes to the Abbotsford Theatre on Saturday next.

The story deals with Carlotta an English girl who has been reared in a Turkish harem. To escape a distasteful marriage she escapes with an English adventurer, and finally reaches London. Here the man is killed and the girl is destitute. She attaches herself to Sir Marcus Ordeyne in a park and begs his protection. He takes her home out of pity and finds no way of disposing of her. Her naive charm and utter innocence soon win his staid bachelor heart and he plans to marry her. Judith Mainwaring, a woman of the world who has long loved Sir Marcus, tells Carlotta he merely pities her and is marrying her to stop unpleasant gossip. Carlotta then runs away with Pasquale, one of Sir Marcus' friends, though she loves Sir Marcus. Months later Mrs. Mainwaring meets Carlotta in Paris, and ashamed, tells the girl the truth, that Sir Marcus is distracted and still searching for her. Carlotta then goes back to live kindly benefactor who has awakened her soul and taught her what love means.

"Back to God's Country" is billed for Wednesday's show, and if the censor has not spoilt its artistry we can recommend this picture as one that will appeal to every man and woman who loves nature.

Matsqui Now Has Board Of Trade

The Board of Trade is at last fully organized with a membership of about 20 which will be increased from time to time. Mr. C. O. D. Bell, a very popular farmer was elected president, Mr. H. G. Bary, secretary-treasurer.

A more complete report will be given next week.

Mrs. Oscar Hougen and Miss Helga Kemprude were Vancouver visitors last week.

Watch Matsqui grow.

The fence at the Matsqui church is being painted and cement sidewalks are being laid down.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid of Richdale, were Matsqui visitors on Friday.

After having spent her holiday with E. G. and Mrs. Erickson, Miss Paulson has returned to Vancouver to resume her duties at the telephone office there.

Miss Aish of the Western Life staff Vancouver, spent the week-end at her parents home here.

A jolly time was spent at the McTaggart home last Saturday evening when a crowd of young people gathered at the house. Cards and dancing were indulged in till midnight when a dainty supper was served.

A whist drive was held under the auspices of the Parent Teachers Association last week. Roy Crist took a lady's part owing to a shortage of ladies and was successful in carrying away the ladies first prize, consisting of a pair of silk hose. A. Loigrin took gentleman's first prize. Miss Jean Mutch, ladies consolation, and O. Ellingson, gents consolation. Sixteen tables were filled and lunch was served at 12 o'clock. This was a very successful affair and great credit is due those who are responsible for it.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Beharrell, of Richdale were Matsqui visitors on Saturday.

The young ladies of Matsqui have organized a tennis club, an work on the court is now in progress. This will be one of the finest courts in the valley when completed. Everyone, young and old are giving a hand at putting the ground in shape. Mrs. Webb is the president of the club, Oscar Ellingson, vice-president, and Miss Sundstrom, secretary-treasurer.

The lady, "Will the vaccination marks show if they are on my leg?" The Doctor, "That depends on yourself, madam."

Matsqui wants a Doctor, drug store, music teacher, band master; all these will come through the efforts of a live Board of Trade such as Matsqui is organizing. Watch Matsqui grow.

Miss Fannie Wickstrom was a Matsqui visitor on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Hayes, of Richdale was among Matsqui visitors on Tuesday.

Mr. D. Duchesnay, of Vancouver transacted business here on Wednesday.

A mother gave her young son 10 cents with the understanding he was never to use the word "darn," after getting the dime and thinking a while he said, "Mother, I know a word that is worth 50 cents."

Mr. G. A. Halverson is on the sick list this week.

Mr. Kelsas smiling countenance was seen in our midst on Thursday.

Mr. Grobert has started a motor-bus service between Matsqui and Vancouver, making two trips a day.

A programme and supper will be held in the Community hall on Tuesday evening, June 19, at 8 o'clock.

Those who attend will be assured a good time. We believe Matsqui has some of the best local talent in B. C. come and see if we are right.

Progressive Towns Signify Progressive People

Detrimental, perhaps, as the multiplicity of social organizations of Abbotsford are in some respects, yet they serve to stimulate and keep alive an activity that is helpful to the town in many ways. As these organizations include many fraternal and social affiliations, they attract to the town people from tributary parts who would otherwise not be interested in Abbotsford in any way. And these connections undoubtedly result in better business and progress.

Having a reputation for being alive has much to do with a town's progress. People like to buy real estate and go into business in such communities as they feel that their investment values will gain. They enjoy the life and activity that prevails in a town where people hustle things along for themselves, and not merely wait for something to happen.

Of course, commercial organizations such as Boards of Trade, are of the paramount economic value to any centre, and the results of their work much broader than generally appreciated. It is commonly true when a number of men band themselves together in active association of this kind they usually achieve some of the results aimed for. Even if such an organization goes along for a time without tangible achievement, the mere fact that the business men are working unitedly for new facilities and progress, creates an optimistic and healthful commercial atmosphere. And that association's activities are broadcasted through the papers, and discussed by residents and travelers, giving the locality a name for being alert and progressive. This attracts people and gives the town a momentum all its own.

Tourist Traffic Will Be Heavy

The road north of Blaine will be closed for paving shortly, and this means the diversion of a large volume of traffic from the south of Vancouver through Abbotsford. The gravel road between Sumas and Cloverdale is in excellent condition, and tourists are more likely to choose this route than take a detour. Apart from the natural increase in traffic which will result from better industrial conditions in the States this summer, this road work will send hundreds of people through Abbotsford who have never been here before. Everything indicates to a traffic double or treble that of previous years.

Talking Of Time And Weather

The cold wet weather of the month just past brought out its usual crop of old timers who tell us the weather is getting colder in this part of the country. Yet scientists claim the reverse is the case, although there may be relapses lasting a generation or so.

Evolutional history parallels very closely the story of changing weather conditions throughout the ages. This earth evolved from the nebular mass probably a billion years ago. Some 800,000,000 years ago its scenery was best comparable to the inside of a raging furnace. Then came the stage possibly 300,000,000 years ago when the earth crust hardened somewhat but the earth's water was merely a cloud of steam hovering about the world's surface.

Life began to form in the Palaeozoic age, 140,000,000 years ago, when the seas were boiling water and hot rain fell among the rocks. In this age the earth began to cool off and continued to cool during the age of hairless reptiles, about 80,000,000 years ago. A sudden cooling process occurred probably 40,000,000 years ago and with few exceptions the hairless reptiles disappeared and were replaced by small mammals able to grow hair.

Some 500,000 years ago this warm pleasant age, during which this section was probably a tropical marshy country, which later entered a period of glaciers covering this continent as far south as Ohio. Four glacial periods succeeded each other until 50,000 years ago when the earth commenced to recover and according to geological speculation will probably become much warmer than it is at present before another really cold period arrives.

The war against earwigs is not the only anti-pest war that should be waged. Now is the time to launch a death struggle with the ever-present caterpillar. Fruit orchards in parts of the valley are being invaded by the tent caterpillar to such an extent that it will cause serious and lasting damage unless speedy action is taken. The incursions of the pest are too well known to require any special emphasis on the menace. The caterpillar should be killed wherever it appears.

"Decrease the cost of production and increase the quality of the product and the efficiency of marketing," was the slogan of the fourteenth annual convention of the Saskatchewan Dairy Association at Saskatoon. Where Honor Is Due

Should Honor the Pioneers and Inventors of Our Own Country

The Winnipeg Free Press asks for some reward to men who have made contributions to the betterment of the community life by the discovery of new processes of cultivation or by the successful pioneer work in new and untried fields. It suggests that they be held in high regard during their lifetime and their memories cherished when they are gone.

This conclusion is reached in discussing the suggestion of some manner of memorial for the man who

To Prevent the Growth of Horns

Caustic Potash Recommended By Experimental Station

The easiest and most humane way of removing horns, according to the Superintendent of the Prince Edward Island Experimental Station, is by the use of caustic potash, when the calf is only a few days old. Caustic potash is sold in sticks at drug stores and is about the thickness of a lead pencil. When the hair is turned back, the embryo horn appears as a button-like spot. The action of the caustic potash is to severely burn the part to

"YOUR TEETH"

THE MAGIC OF THE TEETH

By Rea Proctor McGee, M.D., D.D.S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

No other person has ever seen a picture or a landscape or a beautiful face or a sunset just as you see it.

No one has ever heard a piece of music or a thunderstorm just as you hear it.

When you and your dearest friend read the same book or hear the same story you will always differ a little in your understanding of it.

This is because every impression that comes to you is moulded by your personality. Your personality is an export and income tax; it checks every act of life—it affects every impression, both coming and going.

Personality is the sum of all of your experiences and of your ideas and of your memories, plus your physical condition. Your appearance is a factor in your effect upon other people; it is one of the great factors of your effect upon yourself.

We all love magic and the supernatural because the everyday humdrum of solid fact gets upon our nerves.

Fairy tales are not for children, they are for grown-ups.

We call them "novels" and we always expect the magical power of a story to overcome the sorcery of evil. Our heroes and heroines we always endow with beauty, health, energy or youth, because in our experience these conditions give a desirable personality that contributes to a happy present and a bright old age.

Our villains we endow with forbidding faces, crooked bodies, often with bad health, because we know that these things warp the disposition and frequently change a pleasant personality into an unpleasant one.

Did you ever hear of a beautiful heroine or a manly hero whose smile faded a row of decayed teeth or injured gums? Do you remember the quickly "Dr. Jekyll's" even and useful teeth changed into protruding, snaggle teeth when he became "Hyde?"

Our mouth and teeth make up seventy-five per cent. of your facial expression. Who wants to look like "Hyde?"

Adventure and Crime

Apparently a-Misdirected Spirit of Adventure Leads to Wrong Doing

One of the particularly disquieting aspects of the crime situation as it exists today is the youthfulness of offenders who are haled before authorities.

This fact precludes the possibility of these youths being old in crime. It indicates that, this lawlessness, never daring, is not of long standing; that, although, as the evidence often reveals, the offence was committed on the impulse of the moment, neither was it the outgrowth of extended apprenticeship as a lawbreaker.

What, then, is the explanation of this outburst that is steadily on the increase? It can hardly be charged with inherent criminal tendencies. The precedents of many of these youths prove that theory, as do their intimate families. Rather, the inclination will be to accept, perhaps with certain reservations, the statement of the investigator that it comes from a misdirected spirit of adventure.—Winnipeg Free Press.

To Exploit Russia

France and Germany Co-operate to Develop Industry There?

A despatch to the London Times from Paris says there is reason to believe there is being prepared at the request of the French Government a memorandum embodying a plan for eventual practical Franco-German co-operation in Russia on the lines of Germany equipping certain exploitations in Russia from which France would derive a share of the profits on account of reparations. The despatch adds that everything, however, depends on the course of events in the Ruhr and the Near East.

pretty German story about Mr. Crossbill; but just in case you don't, I shall tell it to you.

They say that when Jesus Christ hung in His terrible agony upon the cross on which He had been nailed, a little Crossbill happened to fly by and was so horrified at the great suffering of our Lord that he determined to use all of his tiny bird strength and attempt to release Him; so he tugged and tugged with his bill (just as hard as he could) at the cruel nails that were driven through Christ's hands and feet; but try as he would he could not pull them out and only succeeded in twisting his bill. His feathers also were stained with holy blood, so that he never, never was washed off, and our little Crossbill friend has ever since retained his red coloring.

Of course we know that this is only a legend and cannot possibly be true, but in any case it makes a very sweet little story.

Progressive Towns Signify Progressive People

Detrimental, perhaps, as the multiplicity of societies in Abbotsford are in some respects, yet they serve to stimulate an activity that is helpful to the town in many ways. They include many fraternal and social affiliations, they attract from tributary parts who would otherwise not be in the town in any way. And these connections undoubtedly result in progress.

Having a reputation for being alive has much to do with progress. People like to buy real estate and go to communities as they feel that their investment values the life and activity that prevails in a town where people are for themselves, and not merely wait for something to happen.

Of course, commercial organizations such as Boards of Trade, have paramount economic value to any centre, and the more numerous the better. It is much broader than generally appreciated. It is a number of men band themselves together in active cooperation to achieve some of the results aimed for. The organization goes along for a time without tangible achievement, but the business men are working untiringly for new ideas, creating an optimistic and healthful commercial atmosphere. The association's activities are broadcasted through the press, and residents and travelers, giving the locality a name, and progress. This attracts people and gives the town a reputation.

Tourist Traffic Will Be Heavy

The road north of Blaine will be closed for some time, means the diversion of a large volume of traffic from the main highway through Abbotsford. The gravel road between the town and the lake is in excellent condition, and tourists are more likely to take a detour. Apart from the natural increase in traffic from better industrial conditions in the States, this work will send hundreds of people through Abbotsford. Everything indicates to a traffic that of previous years.

Talking Of Time And Weather

The cold wet weather of the month just past has been of old timers who tell us the weather is getting colder. Yet scientists claim the reverse is the case, relapses lasting a generation or so.

Evolutionary history parallels very closely the conditions throughout the ages. This earth evolved probably a billion years ago. Some 800,000,000 years ago, the earth was a ball of molten lava, and with few exceptions, the earth's water was merely a cloud of steam hovering over the surface.

Life began to form in the Palaeozoic age, 140,000,000 years ago. The seas were boiling water and hot rain fell among the earth began to cool off and continued to cool during the Silurian, about 80,000,000 years ago. A sudden cooling, about 40,000,000 years ago and with few exceptions, the earth's water was merely a cloud of steam hovering over the surface.

Some 500,000 years ago this warm pleasant age, was probably a tropical marshy country, which the glaciers covering this continent as far south as Ohio succeeded each other until 50,000 years ago when the ice cover and according to geological speculation was warmer than it is at present before another really cold period.

The war against earwigs is not the only anti-war waged. Now is the time to launch a death struggle against the caterpillar. Fruit orchards in parts of the valley are infested with such an extent that it will cause a loss unless speedy action is taken. The incursions of the caterpillar are known to require any special emphasis on the fact that it should be killed wherever it appears.

BERRY MEN PREPARING

to be picked in clusters, Black may be picked either way. No white currants will be accepted for shipment to the Prairie market as they are unsaleable. All berries intended for jam must be hulled.

General Instructions.—Do not pick berries when the dew is on or immediately after rain. Berries must be dry when picked. All berries immediately after picking should be removed to a cool, well ventilated shed or other suitable place, a couple of feet from the ground, and allowed to cool off before being packed in crates. Deliver on vehicle with good springs. Protect from dust with a light cotton cover which should be raised at least 12 inches over the load to provide ventilation and protect from the hot rays of the sun.

Growers identification number must be stamped in all packed boxes.

Local managers will advise their growers the daily time limit for receiving deliveries and all growers are asked to comply to avoid unnecessary rush and confusion and the risk of holding over until the following day thereby probably reducing the grade to jam berries. Locals are asked to set a reasonable hour (as late as possible).

The labelling of the containers must be well and neatly done. Locals can supply a recipe for making a most satisfactory paste which should be applied with a soft brush, smoothed out and brushed into the grain of the wood with a fine whisk or brush.

All growers are requested to take early delivery of crates or other containers and if possible to avoid getting their supplies during the time when fruit is being delivered.

Growers are earnestly advised to consult with the Manager of their local in all matters of doubt or difficulty and to co-operate in every possible manner for the welfare of the industry in general.

Increased Dairy Production

Necessities of Industry Are Stressed At Saskatoon Convention

"Decrease the cost of production and increase the quality of the product and the efficiency of marketing," was the slogan of the fourteenth annual convention of the Saskatchewan Dairy Association at Saskatoon. President R. J. Underwood noted Saskatchewan's position as the producer of sixty per cent. of the nation's wheat, and also its leadership in the livestock industry. On the one hand, the farmer was confronted with an actual loss, and on the other hand, with heavy depreciation. Dairying, which was only a part of the larger problem of farm management, had given a better return and had a more favorable outlook for the future.

The immediate necessities of the industry were the breeding up of dairy herds toward better producing females, through the use of purebred sires and continuous cow tests and greater care in feeding and management. Mr. Underwood noted that since 1906 the creameries of the province had increased from six to sixty, with fifty places clamoring for manufacturing facilities, and a production which had increased from 134,000 pounds to over 9,000,000 pounds a year. He warned the producers that a describable connection with the Old Country should be maintained by the highest standard in quality, and expressed a hope that the dairymen of Canada would look less to government leadership and increase their power and self-reliance by taking the initiative themselves.

The Dairy Commissioner, P. E. Reed, in presenting his report, noted an increase of nearly thirty per cent. over the previous year. The southern third of the province had made great strides in the production of butter, being responsible for 42 per cent. of the output of the last year. Of the total output, 81 per cent. had been manufactured in the summer months. He urged that more attention be given to utilization of the immense plants for production during the winter months. Conditions warranted winter dairying, as cows which freshen in the fall yield up to 20 per cent. more milk than those which freshen for summer milking, and there was a like increase in market returns for winter produce. Ninety per cent. of Saskatchewan butter was sold on government grade and more than half the output was exported. Last year 224 cars were exported, nearly all of which went to eastern markets. There had been an increase in herds under test from 61 in 1921 to 190 in 1922. Mr. Reed deplored the fact that of 456,000 cows in the province only 6,000 were under test. He suggested the desirability of the association embarking in the enterprise of making known the great nutritive value of dairy products. He drew the attention of the delegates to the fact that butter products were subjects to customs tariff, whereas Oleomargarine ingredients were on the free list, a discrimination in favor of the manufacture of Oleo, which enabled them to pocket $57,000 a year at the expense of producers of butter.

Professor Winters, of the University, reminded the delegates that the market for dairy products was a world-wide market, easily accessible to any given area, which meant keen competition with the most efficient producers winning and maintaining the lead. He reminded them also that Saskatchewan was very low in the scale of average production per cow, being only 3,143 as compared with all of Canada 3,779, Germany 4,350, Denmark 5,666, United Kingdom 5,934, Switzerland 6,950, and the Netherlands 7,555. This in spite of the fact that Saskatchewan's cows were a high average of grading. He believed that with care in feeding, even with the present standard of cows, the production would be greatly and profitably increased.

Bulgaria Conscripts Workers
Bulgaria has a labor army of conscripted workers. Every man between the ages of 20 and 50 is liable to obligatory labor. They argue that this is the only way that Bulgaria can get back on her feet economically, and restore the value of her currency. No man, no matter what his rank and wealth, is excused from eight months compulsory service. The law will apply to women soon.

Livestock Judging Competition

Macdonald Competition Open to Agricultural Colleges of Western Canada

Every Provincial Agricultural College west of the Great Lakes has been invited to participate in the 1923 Macdonald Livestock Judging Competition. This is an elimination contest, arranged by the firm of W. C. Macdonald, Reg'd. Inc., Tobacco Manufacturers, of Montreal, to determine which college will be represented by its student judging team at the Chicago International Livestock Show. The winning team will be sent to Chicago as the guests of the big tobacco firm to represent "Western Canada" in the international competition which is the premier event of its kind on the American continent. Last year Western Canada went unrepresented by any college team and the House of Macdonald, so prominently connected with the development of scientific agriculture in Canada for so many years, has generously offered and arranged for adequate representation of Western Canada if the agricultural college desire to have their students participate.

To properly represent the great Canadian west at Chicago, it was decided to have the most representative team possible and the elimination contest is therefore being arranged in order that the best team may be selected. The agricultural colleges of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba have been invited to enter teams of five students, from their final year, in the Macdonald livestock judging competition.

The western college authorities will decide themselves where the competition will be held but the Royal Agricultural Show at Toronto, to be held next November, is favored for a number of reasons.

In the event of the Toronto show being decided on, the firm of W. C. Macdonald Reg'd. Inc. will pay the railway expenses of the teams of five and an instructor from all the western colleges to Toronto and return. The rules of the contest are that the men of all competing teams must be eligible for entrance to the students judging competition at the Chicago International Livestock Show, and that the entrance fee for this (Chicago) competition must be looked after by the authorities belonging to the University or College of the winning team.

After the elimination contest is decided all expenses of the winning team to Chicago and return to the college will be paid by the donors of the Macdonald-Challenge Trophy.

Favors Church Union

Ralph Connor Can See No Reason For Further Delay

Ralph Connor, author of "The Sky Pilot," "The Man From Glengarry," and many other popular novels dealing with the life of Canada, may be a man of dual personality, in that he is also the Rev. C. W. Gordon, D.D., minister of St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church, Winnipeg, and ex-Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, but he has no two opinions on the question of Church Union. In the course of a recent interview, the Preacher-Novelist emphatically declared himself as opposed to further delay in the consummation of the Union.

"The interests at stake are so vast and pressing that the Christian Church cannot afford to pause for a single day, merely for the sake of pausing or because of any hope that we may have of winning those opposed to Union to share our convictions," said Dr. Gordon.

"Speaking of the situation in the west, with which he is so familiar, Dr. Gordon said: 'There is no doubt in my mind that as far as Western Canada is concerned, Church Union is practically accomplished, and nothing that I can imagine will prevent its formal and complete consummation. Very few indeed will be the Presbyterian congregations in the west that will remain outside the Union Church.'

Where Honor Is Due

Should Honor the Pioneers and Inventors of Our Own Country

The Winnipeg Free Press asks for some reward to men who have made contributions to the betterment of the community life by the discovery of new processes of cultivation or by the successful pioneer work in new and untried fields. It suggests that they be held in high regard during their lifetime and their memories cherished when they are gone.

This conclusion is reached in discussing the suggestion of some manner of memorial for the man who acclimatized apples to Western Canada.

The suggestion is one which appeals to the public. We raise our monuments, or build memorials and name our public buildings after kings or titled persons; we should honor the pioneers and inventors of our own country. Even our universities single out for special honors the visiting royalty or the touring governors, and forget to give a word of praise to some person who has made some valuable contribution to our community life, by making the way of our people easier or the burden lighter.

The suggestion in the Winnipeg Free Press is a very good one. Let us remember in fitting manner, the persons who do something for our country.—Calgary Albertan.

Matches and Smoking

Blame Women Smokers for Higher Fire Loss in U.S.

Woman smokers are suspected of having caused the heavy increase in loss by fires due to "matches and smoking" in the United States during the last year, reported by the National Board of Fire Underwriters to have amounted to $25,992,033. The total loss by fire in the country for the year was $495,000,000.

"Can the more general use of tobacco by women during the last few years be the reason for the startling advance in the fire losses from the twin hazard of 'matches-smoking'?" asks the report. "Insurance men are asking themselves this question as they contemplate the total which compares with $16,435,562 in 1918."

Concerning Some American Crossbills.

By CORINNE.

THERE is a certain bird that lives in almost all northern countries of the world, known as a Crossbill.

In spite of the fact that it is only about as large as a Sparrow, it reminds one of a tiny Parrot on account of its bill, which is crossed at the tip, just the way the Parrot's bill curves over itself. It is for that reason this little bird has received its name, which so thoroughly describes it.

In the winter the American Crossbills come down to warmer regions, even as far south as New York and one can often hear their cheery "Kimp-Kimp-Kimp!" call as they swing around and around pine cones in their search for the seeds hidden under the flat overlapping cone leaves. It is amusing to see their unending search for these seeds, for one would think that their crossed bills would make their task very difficult. But no, they manage to extract the seeds with amazing rapidity.

Like many of our bird friends, Mr. and Mrs. Crossbill are absolutely different in appearance except as to their beaks, for in this respect they are just alike. Mr. Crossbill is a dull red (a sort of brick red), which changes on some of his feathers to a grayish brown. His breast is also reddish. Guess what color Mrs. Crossbill is! She is a greenish-yellow with a suggestion of brown in spots, while her breast is dull yellow and her wings and tail are brown.

Did you ever hear of such a difference between two birds of the same breed? One would hardly think them to be even relatives unless one knew how to recognize them—and one easily does this from their beaks. The males and females of ever so many birds are absolutely different in coloring and, of course, we must remember that Mr. Cardinal Bird is brilliant red—every single feather of him except the tiny bit of black around his bill, while Mrs. Cardinal is black and orange, while his little mate is brown and yellow. Mr. Bobolink is bright black and white with a yellow patch on the back of his neck, and Mrs. Bob is a flecked brown and yellow and rather "thrushy" in appearance, and it is pretty much the same with Mr. and Mrs. Grosbeak and Mr. and Mrs. Red-winged Blackbird; the latter has no resemblance whatsoever to her handsome mate.

Mrs. Crossbill isn't a very good nest builder; still her nest seems to hang together up among the pine branches, and in it she lays four or five greenish-white eggs that are speckled with brown. I suppose everyone knows the pretty German story about Mr. Crossbill; but just in case you don't, I shall tell it to you.

They say that when Jesus Christ hung in His terrible agony upon the cross on which He had been nailed, a little Crossbill happened to fly by and was so horrified at the great suffering of our Lord that he determined to use all of his tiny bird strength and attempt to release Him; so he tugged and tugged with his bill (just as hard as he could) at the cruel nails that were driven through Christ's hands and feet; but try as he would he could not pull them out and only succeeded in twisting his bill. His feathers also were stained with holy blood, so that he never, never was washed off, and our little Crossbill friend has ever since retained his red coloring.

Of course we know that this is only a legend and cannot possibly be true, but in any case it makes a very sweet little story.

To Prevent the Growth of Horns

Caustic Potash Recommended By Experimental Station

The easiest and most humane way of removing horns, according to the Superintendent of the Prince Edward Island Experimental Station, is by the use of caustic potash, when the calf is only a few days old. Caustic potash is sold in sticks at drug stores and is about the thickness of a lead pencil. When the hair is turned back, the embryo horn appears as a button-like spot. The action of the caustic potash is to severely burn the part to which it is applied. It is therefore necessary to apply vaseline to the head in a small circle surrounding the button, but not on the button itself. The caustic stick is slightly moistened and rubbed on to the button. It should be applied four or five times, allowing each application to dry before applying the next. It is well to wrap a bit of paper around the stick of potash to prevent burning the hands.

The calves should be kept from rain or wet grass for several hours after each application, or the caustic may be washed off and perhaps run down and damage the head. If the job is thoroughly done the horns will make no growth and a really fine "mooly" head will result.

When older animals have had to be treated at the Charlottetown Station, the best plan has been to throw them with a rope by passing three half hitches around the body, that is, around in front of the shoulders, back of the shoulders, and at the flank. It is an easy matter to bring the animal to the ground by drawing tightly backwards on a rope thus applied. The animals are then securely tied and the horns removed with a fine-toothed meat saw, as close to the head as possible. Observation has shown that less bleeding results when the cut is made close to the head. Cold water immediately applied checks the flow of blood. No other treatment is necessary.

A mountain almost a mile long which is nearly 90 per cent. pure iron is located near Durango City, Mexico.

"YOUR TEETH"

THE MAGIC OF THE TEETH

By Rea Proctor McGee, M.D., D.D.S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

No other person has ever seen a picture or a landscape or a beautiful face or a sunset just as you see it.

No one has ever heard a piece of music or a thunderstorm just as you hear it.

When you and your dearest friend read the same book or hear the same story you will always differ a little in your understanding of it.

This is because every impression that comes to you is moulded by your own personality. Your personality is like an export and income tax; it touches every act of life—it affects every impression, both coming and going.

Personality is the sum of all of your experiences and of your ideas and of your memories, plus your physical condition. Your appearance is a large factor in your effect upon other people; it is one of the great factors in your effect upon yourself.

We all love magic and the supernatural because the everyday humdrum of solid fact gets upon our nerves.

Fairy tales are not for children, they are for grown-ups.

We call them "novels" and we always expect the magical power of good to overcome the sorcery of evil.

Our heroes and heroines we always endow with beauty, health, energy or youth, because in our experience these conditions give a desirable personality and contribute to a happy present and a genial old age.

Our villains we endow with forbidding faces, crooked bodies, often with ill-health, because we know that these things warp the disposition and frequently change a pleasant personality into an unpleasant one.

Did you ever hear of a beautiful heroine or a manly hero whose smile showed a row of decayed teeth or inflamed gums? Do you remember how quickly "Dr. Jekyll's" even and beautiful teeth changed into protruding snaggle teeth when he became "Mr. Hyde?"

Your mouth and teeth make up seventy-five per cent. of your facial expression. Who wants to look like "Mr. Hyde?"

Adventure and Crime

Apparently a-Misdirected Spirit of Adventure Leads to Wrong Doing

One of the particularly disquieting aspects of the crime situation as it exists today is the youthfulness of the offenders who are haled before the authorities.

This fact precludes the possibility of these youths being old in crime. It indicates that, this lawlessness, however daring, is not of long standing; that, although, as the evidence too often reveals, the offence was not committed on the impulse of the moment, neither was it the outgrowth of an extended apprenticeship as a law defier.

What, then, is the explanation of this outburst that is steadily on the increase? It can hardly be charged to inherent criminal tendencies. The antecedents of many of these youths disprove that theory, as do their immediate family. Rather, the inclination will be to accept, perhaps with certain reservations, the statement of one investigator that it comes from a misdirected spirit of adventure.—
Detroit Free Press.

To Exploit Russia

Will France and Germany Co-operate to Develop Industry There?

A despatch to the London Times from Paris says there is reason to believe there is being prepared at the request of the French Government a memorandum embodying a plan for eventual practical Franco-German co-operation in Russia on the lines of Germany equipping certain exploitations in Russia from which France would derive a share of the profits on account of reparations. The despatch adds that everything, however, depends on the course of events in the Ruhr and the Near East.

Wade nodded. Ten minutes later he was in the saddle and headed for the mountains, just as dusk began to fall. The cool night air, blowing against his face as he reached the higher levels, was delightfully refreshing after the heat of the day. He took off his hat and opened the neck of his shirt to the breeze, which revived his energies like wine. HELP FOR YOUNG WOMEN

Mrs. Holmberg Tells How
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Viking, Alta.—"From the time I was 15 years old I would get such sick feelings in the lower part of my abdomen, followed by cramps and vomiting. This kept me from my work (I help my parents on the farm) as I usually had to go to bed for the rest of the day. Or at times I would have to walk the floor. I suffered in this way until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very satisfactory results so far and am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends. I surely am glad I tried it for I feel like a different person now that I don't have these troubles."
— ODELIA HOLMBERG, Box 93, Viking, Alta.

Letters like this establish the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobequid, Ontario, for Mrs. Pinkham's private text-book and learn more about it.

lights of Crawling Water in the distance below.

He had covered some five miles of his journey, to no other sound than the occasional note of some bird, when his quick ears caught the thud of a horse's feet on the trail ahead, with now-and-then a sharp clatter as the animal slipped on the stones. Wade slowed his horse down to a walk, and eased his Colt in its holster. He expected to meet some harmless wayfarer, but, under the circumstances, it was just as well to be prepared for trouble. Soon, however, he smiled to himself, for whoever rode toward him, made too much noise for any but a peaceful mission. The other horse, too, had been slowed down and the two riders approached each other with such caution that the rancher finally became impatient and pressed forward recklessly.

Out of the night the stranger came on, still slowly, until a turn in the trail brought them face to face.

"Don't shoot!" said a woman's contralto. "I'm a friend."

"Dorothy!" Wade ejaculated, at once recognizing the voice, although he could not see the girl distinctly in the darkness. "In Heaven's name, what are you doing out here?"

"Is it you, Gordon?" In her relief, she laughed softly as she pulled her pony up side of him. "I was a little scared for a second or two. I've awfully bad news, I'm afraid," she added, immediately serious. "I've been trying to find you. I went to the hotel and they told me you'd gone somewhere."

"Miss Rexhill and I went to call on you."

"You did? If I'd only known, I've been clear out to the ranch."

"Is Santry there?" In his anxiety he forgot momentarily the loneliness of her long ride. "They say some of Jensen's men have been shot up; and I'm anxious to find out what Bill knows."

"That's just what I want to tell you. I heard of the shooting before I left town. Whoa, Gypsy!" She reined up her pony, nervously, for it would not stand still. Wade seized the animal's bridle and quieted it. "I don't know if he's there or not," the girl went on. "I couldn't see. The ranch house is full of men."

"Men? What men?" Wade demanded sharply.

"Race Moran's crowd. They went out to arrest Santry. The Sheriff is with them. I heard part of it in town, and that's why I tried to find you." Wade groaned. "I peeped in at a window, and when I could see neither you nor Santry I slipped away without being seen and took the old trail back because it was shorter."

"Lord, what a mess!" Wade ground his teeth savagely. "Poor old Bill was all alone there and they must have surprised him. But I don't see why Barker didn't mention the posse when he told me of the shooting?" "He didn't know of it, probably. They left town very quietly. I happened to be out back of the house and I heard one of them talking as they rode by."

"Good Lord!" Wade's head dropped. "I told Bill to stay at the ranch, and he promised me . . ."

"I don't believe he shot Jensen at all," Dorothy declared, with spirit. "Yes, it was Jensen himself and one of his herders. Both in the back—killed."

"Bill Santry never shot any man in the back," Wade declared, in a relieved tone. "If you're sure of the facts, Santry will come clear all right."

"It's just a devilish scheme of Moran's, that's all, to put it on you and Santry. I'm sure it is. He hates you both. Whoa, Gypsy!" She reined the little mare in again. "No, it's all right, Gordon. I can manage her," she remonstrated, as he reached for the bridle once more.

"So that's their game, eh? By Heaven, I more than half believe you're right." His face grew ugly with rage. "Dorothy," he continued grimly, "thanks are useless. You're a brick, that's all. Do one thing more for us, will you?"

"Anything," she replied simply, her eyes shining with devotion to him, but he was too overwrought to read them in the darkness.

"When you get back to town get word to some of the men for me. You may meet them on the way out, if not they'll be around the barn. Tell them to meet me at the big pine, on the old trail."

His horse had grown restless and now he allowed it to have its head; he was moving past her when she clutched his arm.

"Gordon!"

She loved him dearly, too dearly to let him know how well until he should speak, if he ever did speak; but above them was the starlit sky and over them hovered the wondrous spirit of the Western night. Her pulse was beating, too, to the call of darker, and despite the control which she had over her nerves, she was just a bit hysterical beneath the surface. She knew that ahead of him was a little army of hostile men, and already that day two men had been killed. So, tremulously, she held on to his sleeve, until she stopped him.

"What are you going to do? You can't do anything alone against so many. They may kill you."

Her sympathy was very sweet to him and he warmly squeezed the little hand which had held him back.

"Don't you be afraid, little girl," he said tenderly. "I shall not get hurt if I can help it."

"Wait until the others come, won't you?"

"Surely," he answered readily, touched by the anxiety in her voice. "I'm going to look around—just as you did—on the quiet. You wouldn't hold me back, where you went in, now would you?"

"No—!" She smiled a little into his face.

"That's the stuff!—Then I'm coming back to the big pine, and you'll send the boys there. They'll not put Santry in jail if we can prevent them. They've played their last card tonight. It's war from now on."

"All right, Gordon, I'll go." Her voice was full of courage again; the moment of weakness had passed. "Remember now, take good care of yourself."

"You bet," he retorted cheerily, and as her mare moved ahead, he caught her arm as she had caught his. "She went quite limp in her saddle and swayed toward him, but he merely added: 'You're a wonder, Dorothy.'"

He released her then, and with a wave of her hand she disappeared into the night. Not until she was beyond recall did he realize that he might have kissed her, that she had wanted him to kiss her, for the first time since they had known each other. He sat in abstraction for several moments before he shook the reins in his hand and his horse sprang forward.

"I've kissed one girl to-day," he muttered aloud, "and I reckon that's enough."

Council Wants C.N.R. Crossings Improved

Matsqui Council has turned over to the Provincial Police a charge for funeral expenses of Henry Lee who died in Mission hospital a short time ago. The deceased man, who was a stranger obtained employment from Lloyd Beharrel of Matsqui but was taken immediately ill and removed to Mission where he died the following day. The Village of Mission feels it has done its share in providing a burial plot and called upon the Matsqui Council to pay funeral expenses.

The C. N. R. crossings on Little's Crossing and also on the Beatty road are among these considered too steep in the Matsqui municipality to be easily crossed. They are narrow as well as steep, necessitating speed on part of cars to cross them, creating a danger.

The Bell road crossing is also five feet narrower than the legal width, which is 20 feet, and the Council has decided that they should be at least 25 feet wide with easy approaches.

T. C. Haley requested a closing of a portion of the Sharpe road, which matter will be considered at the next council meeting.

A contract was let for the gravelling of a portion of the Bradner road north and south of the B. C. E. railway track from the Highway to Tilley corner on south. The price was $2 per yard for the first 500 cubic yards, and $1.85 over this amount.

Complaint was made by Mr. Gambo of obstruction of stream by Mr. Georgeff in cutting shingle bolts.

The clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Georgeff to remove the obstruction.

Mr. Ray Ross was awarded the contract of hauling gravel by truck on Ross road at $1.15 and $1.45 per yard.

Road appropriations were as follows: Mt. Lehman road south $300; Lehman road $150; Sinclair road $150 (west of Aberdeen). Ward 4: grading on Gallagher road $50. Hauling rock $100. Sumas Municipal Council met on Saturday last considerable time being taken up with lengthy discussions.

A road was gazetted east and west from McDermid road to Cole road, thus giving access to Kilgard.

Sumas Agricultural Society was granted $150 towards this year's fair, this amount the same as given last year.

A letter was received from Hon. E. D. Barrow pointing out that finances of his department did not permit of any road construction on the prairie this year.

The Council assumed $200 of the cost of excavating the Potter Ditch, the material available to be used for grade.

The Municipal Solicitor sent the Council a letter defining lawful fences.

Stage Line to Vancouver

W. Grohnert of Matsqui has started a daily stage line between local points and Vancouver, making convenience calls at Matsqui, Clayburn, Abbotsford and Huntingdon for passengers, as well as meeting the first ferry every morning from Mission. Mr. Grohnert has a late model Cadillac car for this business and will aid another as soon as traffic warrants. Reservations can be made by phoning the East Side Garage, Matsqui. Small express parcels will be carried at a nominal charge.

The Associated Boards of Trade of the Fraser Valley will meet at Ladner on June 13, having been postponed from Cloverdale. Following the business meeting at which a president will be elected, a banquet will be tendered in Gough's Hall to which members of the New Westminster and Valley Boards are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Collison spent the week-end at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. H. Fraser.

Mr. Hunt has installed a telephone in his premises. He has formally opened the Crescent Ice Cream Parlor and reports considerable business during the past few days.

The customs offices and B. C. E. railway station at Huntingdon are presenting a fresh clean appearance with a coat of paint. A milk stand is being erected at the station and other minor improvements.

Mr. W. B. Vault, Indian Agent visited Kilgard Wednesday.

No spring floods and no mosquitos this year.

Cheese Drops

Mrs. Haron sends this recipe, which she says we gave her several years ago. We are glad to get it for our own card was lost.

Beat two eggs slightly and add one-quarter cup Pacific Milk. Pour this gradually into one cup of sifted flour with one teaspoon of salt. Put a col-ander over boiling water and force the mixture through with a potato masher.
As soon as the buttons come to the top of the water, skim them off and sprinkle with salted grated cheese.

Put them in the oven five minutes and serve.

Drilling Has Been Suspended For Few Days; Awaiting Arrival of Casing

Drilling operations have been temporarily suspended during the past week pending the arrival of a shipment of casing from Calgary, this material being unexpectedly found necessary because of the formations encountered.
Work will be immediately commenced when this arrives.

It is our policy to protect the well
by following the drill down with casing as closely as conditions will allow, this making the hole safe for the distance already drilled.

DO OR GO!

The world owes none a living,
But a living's there to win,
And more—aye—fame and riches,
For the fellow with the grin;
For the man who takes his coat off,
And with confidence sets to,
Who squares his shoulders boldly,
And who says, "I'm here to do!"

There's a job—your job—before you,
It is up to you to work,
To do, and to do your darndest,
Not vacillate nor shrink.
Put trust not in excuses;
Results show, they alone,
If a man's a man or—nothing,
If a worker or a drone.

Life has no use for whiners,
Who whimper for "A chance,"
It has no use for slackers
When the watchword is "Advance"
But it needs, oh, men are needed
Who can laugh at every blow.
So do your job! And do it!
Do it honestly, or—go!

The I. B. S. U. will hold a meeting
Sunday, June 17th in the theatre.
